Special Correspondence of The Circles. 23 New York, December 11. -Business at the mining boards for the past week shows a considerable increase, in point of shares sold, over that of the previous one, and a large increase in point of cash value represented. The recorded sales at both boards amount to 702,504 shares. There has been less speculation in the small faucies, and a decided increase in the attention paid to the more substantial stocks of the list. The market has been irregular; but, white a few of the stocks show a decline from last week's closing prices, a far greater number show encouraging advances. There is a growing interest in the mining market among the outside public; it is generally stated by the brokers that more outside orders have been received during the week than for some time, and the indications are that an active demand for the better class of mining securities will soon be developed. The main feature of the mining market during the past week has been the active speculation in Boston Consolidated, which, from $1.80 on Monday last-to which price it had advanced from $1.10 on December 1-sold up to $3 on Tuesday, and has since then fluctuated between $2,20 and $2.80 until to-day, when it spurted to $3, and from this price fell to $1.50 at the close of business.
